Bruce Jenner's "Rule for Life" is exactly the same as it was when he became the "World's Greatest Athlete" by winning the gold medal in the 1976 Olympic Decathlon.

Bruce Jenner is a professional speaker who motivates and captivates corporate and association audiences around the world. His personal and professional success story, which he highlights in presentations relates to his audience because he has been there. His message, "Finding the Champion Within" is relevant to people everywhere, whether they're high school athletes or corporate vice presidents. Bruce's energy and motivation translates easily into his presentation and audiences are visibly moved by his story and the lessons that have made him a success.

Bruce Jenner captivated the world when he broke the world record by scoring 8,634 points in the decathlon at the 1976 Olympic games in Montreal and earned the title, "World's Greatest Athlete."

When Bruce is not on the podium, he is a NBC sportscaster and commentator for a wide variety of sporting events. He promotes physical fitness along with Arnold Schwarzenegger on the Council for Physical Fitness and Sports.

Bruce's passion as a motivational speaker has gained him national attention. He is in demand for companies such as Coca Cola, VISA, Anheuser Busch, Toyota, Kawasaki, Holiday Inn, IBM Corporation and York International just to name a few.
